To whom it may concern:

Miller Survey has completed a number of successful surveys at the University of Houston in recent years and we have been completely satisfied with their product, professionalism, and fees.

Miller has gone out of its way to become more knowledgeable about the University of Houston campus than any of the other survey firms with whom I have worked. The firm is well-organized, responsive and professional; and is also well-versed in the latest survey technology. Miller Survey's Brian Wilson has provided outstanding counsel regarding the survey profession, and Cesar Romero sets a very high standard of service; there is no survey firm I trust more to deliver an excellent project, on time, at a reasonable cost.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,
